HK0, MALPELO ISLAND (FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE-Malpelo DXpedition 2012).

"The advance team to Malpelo, commonly referred to as the 'Fantastic Four', are working very hard and doing a great job on the Island, despite several days of heavy rain and wind. All of the camp infrastructure and antennas for OP.B (bajo) is now complete and the guys have tested all the antennas. They appear to be working as planned with good signal reports from around the world, including Asia long path. The next step in the project is to make safe the climb to the top of the mountain where OP. A (alto) will be situated. Safety lines are being installed along the most treacherous sections of the trail. Once in place, construction will begin. There will be an operating tent with four radios and 500 W amps and six antennas. There will also be a sleeping tent, as the decision has been made to send crews to the top for 48 hour shifts. This is to minimize the risks of transit up and down. Under the current scheduling plan devised by W0GJ, each team member will serve on four 48 hour shifts during our stay on the island. Beginning at 0001 Zulu, January 10, 2012, the advance team will begin using the HK0NA callsign. Please understand that their primary purpose on the island is to prepare everything for the team arriving in about 10-12 days. In their off time, they may be QRV.

Any contacts made with the men using their home calls should count as valid contacts with Malpelo and will be confirmed through the team's QSL Manager N2OO. Keep in mind their logs won't be sent to N2OO until after the DXpedition and those QSOs will not show in the HK0NA 'log lookup'. The team has asked two experienced DXers to act as team 'Pilots'. San, K5YY, is chief pilot and all communications to the team will go through him. Col, MM0NDX, will act as the European Pilot. Please check the Web site for their 'guidelines.' And please, do not contact them prior to the beginning of the DXpedition which should be on the afternoon of January 21st if all goes well. We want to thank all of our sponsors for their generosity. This includes DX Foundations, DX Clubs and hundreds and hundreds of individual DXers who have contributed toward our expenses. Contributions can be made via our Web site at:

<http://www.hk0na.com/sponsors>

We plan periodic uploads of pictures and updates from the island. Watch the website for ongoing news.

Thanks,

Jorge Prieto, HK1R: DXpedition leader

Bob Allphin/K4UEE and Gregg Marco/W6IZT: Co-leaders"

On Jan 11 the DXCC desk confirmed that QSOs made by the advance team , when they used their individual calls, will count for DXCC purposes. Those logs will not be available until after the DXpedition concludes. May we suggest that you work HK0NA also.

We intend to upload the HK0NA logs to ClubLog soon after the arrival of the main operating team. Don't bother checking the "Log Online" until then.

Lastly, our volunteer pilots kindly request that you not contact them until after the main operation begins!

through January 4 declined nearly 20 points (when compared to the previous seven days) to 88.1. Average daily solar flux was off 6.4 points to 143.1.

88.1 is the lowest reported weekly sunspot number average since Propagation Forecast Bulletin ARLP035 from 18 weeks ago.

As expected, last week's report of 80.1 as the average daily sunspot number for all of 2011 was correct. The additional sunspot numbers from December 30-31 did not change it, but we just had to verify.
