ZL9 Current Schedule:

Current Status:

Everything is on schedule; the team is excited and ready to begin their journey to New Zealand. Team members will begin arriving in Invercargill, NZ on November 22. The majority of our equipment arrived at a storage facility in Invercargill on Oct 18.

November 23 - the equipment will be taken to the NZ Department of Conservation (DoC) Quarantine Inspection station.

November 24 - everything will be unpacked and inspected; including personal items, once inspected everything will remain at the station until departure.

November 25 - the team returns to the inspection station for DoC briefings on: safety, landing permit conditions and working around the islands wildlife.

November 26 - the team again returns to the DoC inspection station for inspection of personal items not processed on Nov. 24. - Equipment will be trucked to Bluff, NZ and loaded aboard the boat for departure, currently scheduled at approximately 12:00 (local).

Several local hams have offered to assist with loading the boat.

With good weather we estimate the voyage will take 40 hours, arriving at Perseverance Harbor sometime between midnight and 06:00 (local) on November 28.

During the DX-pedition daily traffic with the team will be handled by the designated Pilot stations. We ask the DX community to direct their compliments / suggestions / concerns to the Pilots who will summarize and forward to us via e-mail. We plan to upload photos and logs on a daily basis. The Pilots are listed on the Team page of our web site www.campbell2012.com

Team member Dave, K3EL, updated his ZL9HR blog on Oct. 21

<http://k3el.wordpress.com/>

Initially we had a band / mode survey page on the web site; due to some Internet pranksters the survey was removed. However, we did collect enough data to get a view of needed bands / modes. In closing we want to again thank the corporate sponsors, clubs, foundations and individuals who have provided products and funding to make the activation of Campbell Island a reality after a long radio silence.

That's it for now; safe travels to the ZL9HR team as they begin their journey.

DXCC cards Check

Hi All:

This is just a reminder regarding the use of LogBook of The World (LoTW).

Please remember that LoTW cannot be used for something it is not designed for. For instance, if someone comes to you with paper screen shot(s) from their LoTW account these absolutely cannot be used for DXCC, WAS, VUCC and WAC.

LoTW is designed to as a secure electronic means of QSLing. In the normal paper QSLing process hams log the station they worked into their logbook. Each station sends each other a QSL card. Upon receipt of the QSL card each station physically checks their log and issues a paper QSL card based on this secure, verified method. The same is basically done in LoTW where, upon registration, LoTW verifies each log upload and issues a match. Again, based on the way paper QSLing works, only electronically. The only different is the registration process which is quite a secure procedure but this is required in order to establish proper identification of each individual so that only a verified match is actually a valid confirmation, without question. Also, completing the QSL process LoTW was designed for applicant's can claim these credits for their awards anytime they choose without the need for a QSL card in hand. Requests for paper cards between applicants can be done at their leisure while claiming award credits almost immediately.

Please keep in mind that a screen shot does not always reflect a "2-way QSO." If we were to grant a QSL from a screen shot it would be possible that you would be granting a credit generated from the applicants upload, only. A screen shot can often reflect just the applicants upload of their log, but it may not reflect a valid match. The match is the requirement that counts in order for use in LoTW, and as long as they have a match then doing an application, electronically is the only way applicants can apply for their credits. (not to mention the quicker and easier way to apply).

It is my understanding the a few applicants have attempted to use screen shots with some card checkers and the card checkers have, rightfully, turned them away. I just note this issue so that you are all aware of this.

Special Note: This also applies to screen shot(s) from ANY electronic QSL site as well as the use of copies of QSO information from an applicant's personal logbook.

If an applicant tries this and gets upset about it please refer them to me and I will handle it.

Please contact me if you have any questions. Regards and thank you for your support!
