November 23 - the equipment will be taken to the NZ Department of Conservation (DoC) Quarantine Inspection station.

November 24 - everything will be unpacked and inspected; including personal items, once inspected everything will remain at the station until departure.

November 25 - the team returns to the inspection station for DoC briefings on: safety, landing permit conditions and working around the islands wildlife.

November 26 - the team again returns to the DoC inspection station for inspection of personal items not processed on Nov. 24. - Equipment will be trucked to Bluff, NZ and loaded aboard the boat for departure, currently scheduled at approximately 12:00 (local). Several local hams have offered to assist with loading the boat. With good weather we estimate the voyage will take 40 hours, arriving at Perseverance Harbor sometime between midnight and 06:00 (local) on November 28.

During the DX-pedition daily traffic with the team will be handled by the designated Pilot stations. We ask the DX community to direct their compliments / suggestions / concerns to the Pilots who will summarize and forward to us via e-mail. We plan to upload photos and logs on a daily basis. The Pilots are listed on the Team page of our web site www.campbell2012.com

Team member Dave, K3EL, updated his ZL9HR blog on Oct. 21 <http://k3el.wordpress.com/>

Initially we had a band / mode survey page on the web site; due to some Internet pranksters the survey was removed. However, we did collect enough data to get a view of needed bands / modes. In closing we want to again thank the corporate sponsors, clubs, foundations and individuals who have provided products and funding to make the activation of Campbell Island a reality after a long radio silence.

That's it for now; safe travels to the ZL9HR team as they begin their journey. Our next update will be in November from New Zealand.

Gene K5GS, for the ZL9HR team
